-Dear You-

Thanks for reading the August 2022 issue of the Barnard Zine Library newsletter. We are happy you're here. Come check us out on the second floor of Milstein in the Zine Stacks.

With this issue of the newsletter, we want to acknowledge the pain, outrage, and grief many of us continue to feel right now. It's okay to not be okay. Care is so important right now. Rest. Dance. Cry. Laugh. Enjoy a meal with family (chosen or otherwise).

As another Global Health Emergency is declared we want to share some resources to help you combat misinformation surrounding the framing of how MonkeyPox is contracted so that we can counter the stigma and better take care of ourselves and communities.

Democracy Now! has comprehensive coverage on the MonkeyPox outbreak:

You can also release your feelings by reading topical zines or channel them by making zines. July is International Zine Month. Follow #izm2022 for day-by-day zine activities you can engage in--with love and rage.

Pre-College Program

A stylized, high-contrast illustration of a beaver. The beaver is depicted with a crown on its head, wearing dark sunglasses, and a light-colored jacket with dark trim. It is holding a book titled 'ARLY COOL ZINE' in its left paw and a pair of scissors in its right paw. The background is a solid light yellow. The illustration has a hand-drawn, graphic quality with bold black outlines and flat colors.

Zine Review

Most Unwanted Zine 17 1/2d⁹ +/- 2.7

3rd print by Liz Mason

Reviewed by Maura Mulholland BC '25

When subversion becomes mainstream, the only thing left to do is satirize the subversion. The Most Unwanted Zine is farce after farce of common zine content, such as political text, spells, fanfiction, and artsy pictures of fire escapes. The Howl-esque poem on the back summarizes it quite nicely: zines suck. Make fun of them. Using a zine.

-Credits & Joy-

what's bringing zine library staff joy this month

Claudia: thai food, rose incense, raspberry yerba mate

Ellie: flowers, brewing tea, flowers, gardening and cooking

Grace: walks with friends in riverside park

Jenna: iced tea and pen pals

Mikako: library AC, journaling, yoga
